Dear GSAPP Community,

The young researcher’s happy feet made everything feel new. As when I was a child, the world was so full of wonders — buildings, trees, flowers... She chased my imagination, exploring the unknown corners of this place called New York. With each step, I saw her joy increase, as if every building she encountered was her own personal discovery.

It is with Pride that I share the following announcement: the Columbia GSAPP LGBTQ+ Alumni Series celebrates its 10th anniversary! Join us on June 8 at 12pm for a virtual session titled “Disappearing Queer Spaces: LGBTQI+ Sites Project.”

On the occasion of Pride Month, Columbia GSAPP has launched a weekly series of LGBTQ+ alumni profiles, featuring notable alumni from across GSAPP programs. For more information, visit gsapp.columbia.edu/alumni-profiles.

This week, Columbia Irving Medical Center is hosting a session to present their latest COVID-19 resource guide. To view the guide, visit gsapp.columbia.edu/covid-19-resources.

Dear GSAPP Community,

My best wishes for an enjoyable summer,

Weiping Wu
Interim Dean

Columbia GSAPP

Dear GSAPP Community,

We are honored to announce the launch of the Columbia GSAPP LGBTQ+ Alumni Series, celebrating its 10th anniversary. The series features notable alumni from across GSAPP programs, including Architecture, Planning, and Preservation. For more information, visit gsapp.columbia.edu/alumni-profiles.

This week, Columbia Irving Medical Center is hosting a session to present their latest COVID-19 resource guide. To view the guide, visit gsapp.columbia.edu/covid-19-resources.

Dear GSAPP Community,

My best wishes for an enjoyable summer,

Weiping Wu
Interim Dean

Columbia GSAPP

Dear GSAPP Community,

We are honored to announce the launch of the Columbia GSAPP LGBTQ+ Alumni Series, celebrating its 10th anniversary. The series features notable alumni from across GSAPP programs, including Architecture, Planning, and Preservation. For more information, visit gsapp.columbia.edu/alumni-profiles.

This week, Columbia Irving Medical Center is hosting a session to present their latest COVID-19 resource guide. To view the guide, visit gsapp.columbia.edu/covid-19-resources.

Dear GSAPP Community,

My best wishes for an enjoyable summer,

Weiping Wu
Interim Dean

Columbia GSAPP