WHEN EYE LAND

by Star Feliz
with text contributions by manuel arturo abreu

A new publication that wades into memory, intimacy, and the ancestral past to explore how the legacy of colonialism has shaped the national identity of the Dominican Republic.

About the Publication

When Eye Land, a new artists’ book by Star Feliz, builds on the artist's research-based installation work, assembling historical texts and photos, colonial maps, fabulated letters, and the artist's own family albums to confront the twisted colonial visions of the Western gaze in Hispaniola in the late 19th and early 20th century. The publication unravels desire seated in the eye of the tourist, scientist and explorer, reflecting on how the constructed landscape (the “Land Columbus Loved” as National Geographic puts it) is formed by spiritual, socio-political, ecological, and cognitive processes. The project asks: How does colonialism live in our cells and psyche, taking root in the subconscious like a spell? Who is the Dominican land?

Depicted are scenes of indigenous life and its violent encounters with Spanish rule, agricultural workers, Santo Domingo’s early industry, and export crops like plantain, cashew fruit, and sugarcane. Select images are transformed with an underprinting of gold pantone ink, offering gilded adornments like those you might find in an old scrapbook. An extensive bibliography credits the source of works included and referenced, melding the project’s anthropological and personal perspective. When Eye Land concludes with an afterword by artist and writer manuel arturo abreu that builds on the project’s themes within their own experience of economic precarity, generational secrets, and transmissions from the ancestral realm.

CONSTELLATIONS FOR INNERLIGHT PROJECTIONS

by Yusuf Hassan

A publication that places the artist’s found imagery and research material into sequence, exploring ideas of revision, process, and reference.

About the Publication

constellations for innerlight projections, an artists’ book by artist and publisher Yusuf Hassan (of BlackMass Publishing), offers a parallel entry point to the artist’s 2022 exhibition a symphony a work in progress at Printed Matter. The exhibition was conceived of as a single published work, exploring ideas of revision and process through printed pieces, zines, objects and photographs around motifs in music, sculpture, and architecture.

constellations for innerlight projections furthers the explorations in Hassan’s exhibition, depicting the artist’s ongoing visual research through a visual dialog of collected diagrammatic sketches, found imagery, musical notation, geometric emblems, and language. The project carries both the sparse and decisive conceptualism of an artist like Stanley Brouwn while embracing the maximalist premise to “use every idea.” It illustrates the question: what is the work that is used to make the work? The publication is bound with kraft paper covers, metal prong fasteners and tape, which reinforce its conceptual format of a research document or work in progress.

Hunters Follow Harpy Shadows, a new artists’ book by designer and artist Rin Kim, recounts across twenty-five chapters the tangled, cosmic history of shapeshifting goddexes intermixed with an otherworldly cast of demis, dryads, wraiths, satyrs, tieflings and sirens. Taking cues from the Old Testament and the depths of fanfiction forums online, the project alternates between narrative storytelling in the direct mode of epic religious texts and a series of Psalmsic interventions spoken in the innermost voice of the gods. Like a series of connected visions, Hunters Follow Harpy Shadows hands down the origin stories of distant worlds—of clashing immortals, species dying out, and deities fading from power. It is both a fantasy saga beset by violence, warfare and blood sacrifice, and a lovers’ song of longing and transcendence.

Central to the project are new images by Oliver Davis, shot on 35mm film, which offer views of a fragmented landscape—jewel-like glimpses of sunlit trees, river stones, and murky underbrush. The lush world seen in these photographs, a version of earth devoid of all humans and figures, provides a quiet space outside of time for staging the mythic struggles of the gods. The book’s typography suggests perhaps an ancient document or illustrated manuscript; the sharp, secret lettering carrying the magic properties of a blade used to split worlds.

I SEE / YOU MEAN
by Lucy R. Lippard

I See / You Mean (first published 1979) is an experimental novel about mirrors, maps, relationships, the ocean, elusive success, and possible happiness, from writer, activist, and curator Lucy R. Lippard. Through a collage of verbal photographs, overheard dialogue, sexual encounters, found material, and self identification devices (astrology, the I Ching, palmistry, Tarot), it charts from past to future the changing currents between two women and two men: a writer, a model/stockbroker/maybe dictator, a photographer, and an actor. With an afterword by Susana Torre.

PAINTINGS ON PAPER: WALTER ROBINSON 2009–2020

by Walter Robinson
with text by Sarah Nicole Prickett

The artist’s own survey of his painterly exploration of commercial illustration, ranging from pulp romance and normcore fashion to pharmaceuticals and fast food.

About the Publication

Walter Robinson’s Paintings on Paper is a self-published comic-book-inspired monograph compiling the artist’s favorite examples of his extensive acrylic paintings on paper made over the last dozen years. Fifty life-sized pages picture the intersection of desire and commerce in the contemporary American spectacle. The publication features an essay by writer and editor Sarah Nicole Prickett, which operates not as a typical art critical text, but rather a short story whose narrative skips along the surface of the real—an uncanny parallel to Robinson’s artworks in a notably innovative work of fiction.

A member of the artists collective Collaborative Projects, Robinson’s neo pop paintings share in the school of postmodern painters such as Eric Fischl, Tom Lawson and David Salle. In addition to his career as an artist, Robinson has had a significant impact on the art world with his contributions as founding editor of both Art-Rite magazine and Artnet, a co-founder of Printed Matter, and in his long tenure as critic and editor at Art in America.

A JOE BRAINARD SHOW IN A BOOK

by Joe Brainard; edited by M/M (Paris) with Ron Padgett and Éric Troncy (Contributors)

From LOEWE, a sumptuous 200-page hardbound volume devoted to the graphic works and artists’ publications of artist and writer Joe Brainard.

About the Publication

Printed Matter is collaborating with LOEWE to offer A Joe Brainard Show in a Book for exclusive distribution, now available to bookstores. The recently published volume is devoted to the graphic works and artists’ publications of artist and writer Joe Brainard (1942–1994). Prefaced by Brainard’s close friend and poet Ron Padgett, and accompanied by an essay from art critic Éric Troncy, the publication reproduces at real scale rarely seen zines, comics, printed matter, ephemera and artworks created by Brainard during the 1960s and 70s.

Edited and designed by M/M (Paris), A Joe Brainard Show in a Book is housed in a giant fold-out cloth dust jacket reproducing Brainard’s Untitled (Bow), a colorful collage from 1967, and is released in a limited edition of 500 commercially available copies. Sales of the book will benefit the nonprofits Printed Matter and Visual AIDS, an organization which utilizes art to fight HIV/AIDS by provoking dialogue, supporting artists living with HIV, and preserving a legacy, because AIDS is not over.

About the Publication

In 2014, artist Dominique Hurth encountered four boxes of cyanotype prints by Thomas W. Smillie, the first custodian and curator of the Smithsonian Institution’s collection of photography (active 1868 to 1917). In her new work Stutters, Hurth builds on several years’ research to rework the original cyanotypes into visual montage, sequencing images that provide a record of Museum life as it documents a ‘national’ collection in the making. Through a meticulous process of xerox and printing reproduction, the work presents photographs of empty display cabinets and staged objects within the Smithsonian’s holdings, following divergent threads of photographic history, exhibitionship and collection-making, as well as technological developments across the late 19th and early 20th century.

Two overlapping sets of captions from the artist offer a subjective and scientific view of the photographs, inviting a cross-referencing of the “official,” if incomplete, bibliographic record. Stutters includes a text by Hurth considering the book’s entwined interests, as well as her personal history with the Smithsonian collection and Smillie’s work. Additional contributions by authors and curators Ruth Noack and Kari Conte consider the ways in which artists’ projects can quietly break apart the violent taxonomy of an archive, and instead use this shifting fragmentation to bring into focus voices that have been excluded from history.

About the Publication

Depreciating Assets, a new artists’ book by Jessica Vaughn, considers the ways in which affirmative action and office equity measures intersect with corporate infrastructure and physical office space, proposing that minimalist design gestures of the modern office cannot exist outside the conditions of race, class and labor. Across four interwoven sections and related appendices, Vaughn assembles her photographs and critical writings alongside xeroxed images, diversity training video stills, and manipulated open source documents of the US Government. The project distills the symptoms of late 20th and 21st century work culture produced by open office plans and modular architecture’s promise of malleability, compliance, and universality—provisions that bid for increased efficiency and productivity at the expense of visibility for Black workers and workers of color.

Using a familiar copyshop color palette on standardized paper stock, Depreciating Assets replicates the style, materials, and colors outlined by the US Government Publishing Office—standards set to ensure design efficiency and the economical production of internal documents. The publication concludes with an afterword by the author contextualizing the project’s themes within the contemporary reality of global pandemic, economic precarity, and protests against racist state violence.

About the Publication

No New Theories is a new artists’ book by Kameelah Janan Rasheed. Building on Rasheed’s associative installation work, the project freely assembles the artist’s own writing, autocorrect algorithms, and Oulipian poems (short texts generated with the help of imposed constraints) alongside visuals drawn from her personal image archive, pop culture, zoological journals, quranic verses, and more. The work gathers these threads with an emphasis on the processes of revision and improvisation as she considers the potential of meaning in place of fixed definitions.

At the heart of No New Theories is an interview between Rasheed and Jessica Lynne, co-founder of the art criticism journal ARTS.BLACK, that attempts to document their intellectual partnership through a layering process by which the original exchange is reworked and expanded with annotations, citations, and excerpted texts. Rasheed and Lynne take on questions of epistemology and pedagogy, knowledge-acquisition, as well as patience and fatigue. To build on the notion of the ‘organic archive’—both as a fictional organizing framework and as a score for possible experiences—the two consider various historical, socio-cultural, and cultural facets of Americana, proposing a multi-directional discourse around the wide permutations of Black experience. The book’s title locates Blackness as a multivalent and porous experience that can’t be neatly theorized.

About the Publication

This facsimile edition collects the full run of the iconic arts periodical Art-Rite, co-published with Primary Information. Edited and published by Joshua Cohn, Edit DeAk, and Walter Robinson between 1973 and 1978 (Cohn would leave after Issue 7), Art-Rite moved easily through the expansive community of post-conceptual, post-minimalist, performance, and video artists that made up New York’s vibrant downtown arts scene. With a sharp editorial vision, fanzine ethos, and proto-punk aesthetic, the magazine presented up-close coverage of the art world that was at once critical, humorous, and deeply knowledgeable, avoiding the formal tone and self-seriousness that characterized other art publications of the time.

Over its five year run, Art-Rite would publish hundreds of interviews, exhibition and performance reviews, statements, and projects “by, with, and about” a generation of artists who felt accessible in these pages, even as many of them were, or would soon become, the defining voices of the era. Featured artists include: Vito Acconci, Kathy Acker, Bas Jan Ader, Laurie Anderson, John Baldessari, Gregory Batcock, Lynda Benglis, Mel Bochner, Marcel Broodthaers, Trisha Brown, Chris Burden, Scott Burton, Ulises Carrión, Judy Chicago, Lucinda Childs, Christo, Diego Cortez, Hanne Darboven, and more.

FOUR BASIC KINDS OF LINES & COLOUR

by Sol LeWitt

A facsimile edition of the iconic LeWitt publication that investigates the possibilities of elemental graphic combinations and the effects of sequence, color, and geometric form, co-published with Primary Information.

About the Publication

This facsimile edition of Sol LeWitt’s iconic Four Basic Kinds of Lines & Colour is co-published with Primary Information. Originally released in 1977, the publication stands as an enduring example of LeWitt’s rigorous process-driven practice which utilizes simple conceptual parameters to generate complex and formally-diverse visual works.

About the Publication

Name, Thing, Thing is a compilation of thoughts, quotations, and fragments on and around typographic intervention as an act of resistance to the colonial embeds of typographic tradition—a pursuit analogous to long-used strategies of survival by people of color to subvert and reclaim defined historical narratives. Cultural remapping, hybrid form-making, and discursive histories are tactics explained in Name, Thing, Thing to locate potential channels of articulation in typography’s decolonization.

Part One (Letters Are Things) is a performative text drawing from numerous theoretical sources across design criticism and cultural thought. Progressing through numbered and lettered sections, the essay attempts to cobble together what a methodology that actively combats typography’s inherent homogenization of language and form might look like. Part Two (Things) borrows images from various books, artifacts, and artworks to locate an expressive language, often incorporating physical gesture—posture, gesticulation, facial expression—in the space around language, symbol and relic. Part Three (Things Cited) attributes the images and text.

AND YET MY MASK IS POWERFUL

by Basel Abbas & Ruanne Abou-Rahme

A visual project of found and original imagery exploring the intersections of performativity and ritual, body and artifact, thingness and virtuality.

About the Publication

And Yet My Mask is Powerful is a publication by Palestinian artist-duo Basel Abbas and Ruanne Abou-Rahme. The work is an encompassing visual poem that develops the artists’ ongoing project of the same name, exploring the intersections of performativity and ritual, body and artifact, thingness and virtuality.

Comprised of several narrative threads, And Yet My Mask is Powerful is a reflection on violence and crisis as it filters down through history, mythology, and into the complexities of our present moment. The book takes Adrienne Rich’s poem Diving Into the Wreck (1973) as its starting point and allegorical framework, with portions of the text running through the book in English and Arabic side-by-side.

The project is built up through the layering of original and found imagery, providing both a formal and conceptual structure for thinking about people and place within a living fabric that has been compromised. Archival photos, stills of video/media files, and performance documentation are shuffled and overlapped until unscripted connections start to emerge.

La: A Geography of Modern Art
Ann Chapman Scales

Aleksandra Mir's oversized booklet is a modern West Coast take on Harold Rosenberg’s “Tenth Street: A Geography of Modern Art” published in Art News Annual by the Art Foundation Press in 1959. Mir’s version reads like an art school brochure, designed to give prospective students a glimpse into what “residential life” is like in the Southern Californian art scene. Photographs by Justin Beal document the bar scene, dinners, lectures, dance workshops, openings, and events, where art appears as background scenery to the mingling of an international group of artists and students.

A Mistake Is a Beautiful Thing
Devin Troy Strother and Yuri Ogita

A Mistake is a Beautiful Thing is published in collaboration with LA-based Coloured Publishing following a companion installation at Printed Matter in 2018. Through a loosely organized collection of photographs, the work moves through its recurring motifs to build on a dialog that is irreverent but assured, examining art and its references, cultural phenomena, and the experience of being a person of color in the US.

Printer Prosthetic: Futura is an “experimental reprint” of artist, publisher, and printer Hansjörg Mayer’s seminal Futura (1965–1968), a series of twenty-six artworks published as folded, single-page pamphlets. Using this collection of Concrete and Fluxus works as a starting point, the publication reinterprets the poems by means of mechanical mediation with a custom 3D-printed “prosthetic” device, outputting the originals through a set of controlled and chance operations.
