
THE SHED

A Statement from The Shed

At The Shed, we believe that access to art is a right, not a privilege. We were established as an independent non-profit for all New Yorkers, visitors, and artists to share work across all disciplines.

Our values are demonstrated through the artists we commission and the work we present. In many cases, the art on view at The Shed today reflects a radical response to the most urgent issues of our time and it underscores the importance of diversity and inclusion.

The Shed is fully independent and not owned or controlled by any private or for-profit entity. The Shed does not endorse or take part in fundraising for political candidates, period.

We are committed to supporting and welcoming the widest range of artists and audiences, and we will continue to do so.
