Funky French Fries is a collection of inflatable totems and bench-style seating. The large totems, inspired by flowers, act as visual anchors in this sculpture garden. These totems also act as anchors for recycled wood seating and are reinforced with an interior steel armature. This design works to provide a respite for those inside Avery, the wider Columbia community, and as an inspiring outdoor classroom. Lacking screen capabilities, the project seeks to bring bodies back to nature, and connect not with the screen, but with other colleagues.
